Aboriginal drink problem serious minister claims

Drinking was one of the biggest problems among Aboriginals in Central Australia, a Lutheran minister who works in the area said recently.

The Rev Peter H. Hood, Curate of St Luke's, Tooowoomba, School, Southport, has been appointed to the Parish of Phillip's, Thompson Estate, 20, 1974.

Last week, decided to consider making grants from the Parish for the benefit of churches, groups and individuals. The money will be sought from churches, groups and individuals.

A competition and exhibition called Art '74 was recently sponsored by the Australian Church Record. The competition was open to all ages and to all forms of art and attracted much interest.

Awards were presented on September 2, the Grass Grant. Grant, Brisbane, Church Record Ltd.

The board had found that the health, living conditions and economic opportunities of the Aboriginals are inadequate to support a civilised community. Evangelical Students

Lest much of the Australian Fellowship of Evangelical Students (AFES) be seen as being wedded to a single orthodoxy, it is a source of great joy that this should not be the case.

The AFES is committed to a number of specific beliefs such as the inerrancy of Scripture, the deity of Jesus Christ, and the necessity of personal conversion to Christ; however, the Fellowship is, to a large extent, unashamedly ecumenical in outlook.

The AFES is made up of a number of local groups, each of which is led by a local leader. Each group is free to develop its own programs and campaigns, and to work in partnership with other groups.

One of the biggest problems in life is the handling of apprehension and fear. The Christian knows that Christ forgave him. This is the first step in forgiveness. Forgive and forget, but do not forgive and then forget. These are pithy sayings that can be applied in any situation.

One way to handle fear is to pray. If you can see the cause of your fear, then the fear is lessened. If you cannot see the cause, then pray for guidance.

Another way to handle fear is to seek the advice of others. This can be done in a number of ways. You can talk to a friend, a minister, or a professional counselor. You can also seek the advice of someone who has been through a similar situation.

The challenge of Humanism - ‘An alternative to religion’

Although the modern humanist movement claims to have a long and notable ancestry, it was only in the year 1941 that four organisations—the American Humanist Association, the Canadian Humanist Association, the British Humanist Association, and the Dutch Humanist Federation—planned their first world conference in Amsterdam.

On August 20, 1941, in Amsterdam, in the presence of representatives of these organisations, the International Humanistic Federation was established.

The IFIEU (International Federation of Humanistic and Ethical Organisations) is dedicated to encouraging and promoting the study of new religious ideas and beliefs, and the Federal Humanist Federation to think freely and to practice freely.

IFIEU has established a nucleus of 130 national and regional humanist organisations, employing 700 professional humanists, and will continue along the path of international co-operation among its member organisations.

A belief which claims that ‘nothing exists except the material things’

Humanism is a modern name for a much older attitude, which denies the spiritual, the supernatural and the heavenly, and believes that all things are explainable by a material interpretation of observable facts. It denies the existence of God and the supernatural: God does not exist.

Jesus ‘deluded’

Jesus, who was a human being himself, deceived his followers into believing that he was God. The Church, which Jesus started, is still deluding believers into faith.
New degrees through College of Theology

Why stop at South Africa?

"The time we have spent on the continent of South Africa has been a wonderful experience," wrote a missionary in a recent letter to his home church. "The people are friendly and welcoming, and the mission is proving to be successful. We have been able to establish a strong presence in the community and are gaining the respect and trust of the local people. The future looks bright for our work in South Africa, and we are looking forward to continuing our ministry here.

But why stop there? For many of our missionaries, the desire to continue their work in South Africa is a natural extension of their commitment to the mission field. Others may be interested in exploring new opportunities or expanding their work in existing areas.

The College of Theology understands the importance of providing opportunities for our missionaries to continue their education and development. That is why we have developed a range of degree programs that are specifically designed to meet the needs of missionary education.

The BTh degree provides a solid foundation for further study and is ideal for those who wish to continue their education in a specific area of interest. The MTh degree is designed for those who wish to pursue advanced study in a particular field, and the PhD degree offers an opportunity for in-depth research and specialization.

In addition to these degree programs, the College of Theology also offers a range of short courses and seminars that are designed to meet the needs of missionaries at all stages of their careers. These courses cover a wide range of topics, from practical issues such as fundraising and pastoral care to more academic topics such as theology and mission.

If you are interested in continuing your education in the mission field and wish to explore the opportunities offered by the College of Theology, we encourage you to contact us for more information. Whether you are looking to pursue a degree or participate in a short course, we are here to support you in your journey of mission and ministry.
